

Homelessness in Minnesota

On any given night...

Over 9,400 people are experiencing homelessness in Minnesota; most of whom are children (over 4,450 children). Studies show that the longer a person is homeless, the more difficult the path back to stability; the greater the toll taken on their physical and mental health, the more their children struggle to adapt to new schools and the stigma of homelessness, and the more relationships begin to disintegrate under the stress of the situation.

About Minnesota Coalition for the Homeless and MESH

Despite a challenging economy...

homelessness is not inevitable. Minnesota is known nationally for our strategies for preventing and ending homelessness.

Minnesota Coalition for the Homeless and MESH provide essential support to local and state efforts to fight homelessness by helping them to become more effective and efficient in:

- Securing housing
- Preventing homelessness
- Streamlining services

for homeless children, youth, and adults.
